

Truth

Truth is about knowing what is right and wrong. It is about respecting yourself and others enough not to lie to them but to tell them the truth. It means taking responsibility for what we say and do.

The turtle is one of the oldest animals on the planet and has had a long history. It has seen many changes to the planet and makes the connection between what the earth and water looked like then and what they look like now. The turtle represents truth because it lives and walks close to the earth and sees the truth of how the land is being treated. Because it also lives in the water, it also sees how the water is being treated.
