Our Classroom

In Room 5, my goal is for each student to feel welcome, included, and confident in themselves. I value the unique strengths and ideas that each student brings to our learning.

I strive to make learning fun and hands-on, with many opportunities for students to collaborate with peers, solve problems creatively, and think critically.

I can't wait to see the growth that happens this year as students begin to "crack the code" of reading, express their ideas in writing more fluently, and develop number sense.
