

CRITICAL LEVEL (RED)

Teaching and learning remain a priority

Whether at home or in a supervised classroom, all students will be engaged in remote learning.

School updates:

- Remote learning for all students N to 12 (no in-class learning) during duration of critical level (red).
- Students in N to 6 of critical service workers and students with additional needs who have been identified by their schools may engage in remote learning at school.
- Physical access to schools is limited to staff, essential deliveries and those students previously identified to attend a supervised classroom.

For students/staff engaged in remote learning in school:

- Students will be engaged with remote learning while inside the school.
- Transportation continues for students identified for remote learning at school who normally take the bus.
- Fundamentals such as handwashing, proper mask use, and physical distancing will continue to be taught and modelled.
- Mask protocols continue for staff and students.
- Students and staff are reminded to stay home if feeling unwell.
